33rd Sunday in Ordinary time
November 13th 2022

Dear Lord, when you open my eyes you start up anew:
and tells me that your heart loves me
and you my special friend would be.

More courage I will need for sure, but any pain I will endure,
Because it makes me like to you and leads unto your kingdom, too.

In sorrow do I find my bliss, for sorrow now no more is this:
Rather the path that must be trod, that makes me one with you, my God.

Oh leave me here alone and still, and all around the cold and chill,
To enter here I will have none; I weary not when I'm alone.
For Jesus you are at my side; never so close did we abide.

Stay with me, Jesus, my delight,
Your presence near makes all things right.

(Translated from the poem "Before a Painting of Jesus in My Cell" by Titus Brandsma, murdered in Dachau concentration camp in 1942 and canonised as a saint on 15 May 2022 by Pope Francis)
